"2007 Denver's Best Singer-Songwriter Award" -WESTWORD

"Intimate and deeply human songcraft" -BOULDER WEEKLY

"While some music fans might not consider themselves fans of 'folk,' they still bow at the alters of Jeff Tweedy, Andrew Bird and Jolie Holland. And now you can add Isakov to that list."
- DENVER POST

"...his lyrics are monstrous. Powerful. Dense and sweet and dark all at the same time." - SYNTAX MAGAZINE

"Comforting and collected, Isakov's sounds create an American soundscape where trains are your travel and ghosts are your confidants." - THE DAILY CAMERA

"Part rustic troubadour and part backwoods shaman, Isakov had us all spellbound, hanging on to every last note." -WESTWORD

"2007 Telluride Troubadour Winner"
